Autism

“The ABC's of Autism: Mobilising
diverse approaches to training ASD professionals”

What's new in our project?

Vocational Education and Training

We are talking about skill such as:

The project's main direct target group is professionals and paraprofessionals supporting individuals with autism and/or other neurodevelopmental disorders. These can include, Occupational therapists (OTs), Speech and Language Therapists (SaLTs), Physical Therapists (PTs), Behaviour Support Professionals (BCBAs, RBTs, Behaviour Analysts), Counselors, Psychologists. From now on, the target group will be referred to as "ASD professionals". The ASD professionals will be able to share their insights, experiences, and knowledge with others and at the same time upgrade their own skillset.

With our project, we aim to deliver a series of trainings about various evidence-based interventions for autism. More specifically, we plan to deliver trainings with a focus on 1. Social skills, 2. Functional Communication and 3. Communicating with parents.

Therefore, the objectives of this proposal are:

-  • Communication professionals and paraprofessional.
-  • To take the gaps identified among the professionals and map current good practices related to interventions for autism.
-  • To deliver training courses to directly train the ASD professionals, in evidence-based approaches they can incorporate into their work.
-  • To create a network of ASD professionals, who can exchange good practices, at European level.
